Classical and Modern Languages

The Department of Classical and Modern Languages offers instruction in twelve languages: American Sign Language, Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Greek, Italian, Japanese, Latin, Portuguese, Russian and Spanish.

Students are encouraged to continue their language studies in a foreign country. Through our affiliation with the Kentucky Institute for International Study, our students can participate in study abroad programs all over the world!

Degree Programs

The department offers three bachelor’s degree programs:
- Bachelor of Science in American Sign Language
- Bachelor of Arts in French
- Bachelor of Arts in Spanish

Students may also choose one of the following minors:
- Classical Languages
- Foreign Language Literature
- French
- German
- Greek
- Italian
- Latin
- Russian Studies
- Spanish

Career Opportunities

Foreign languages are not just for teachers and interpreters. Immersing yourself in another language and its culture is the best way to join today’s global community.

Becoming bilingual is not only personally enriching, but it will also open up new job opportunities. For many employers, your ability to communicate with new partners and clients will be just as important as your primary skills.

Possible career areas include: government, social services, education, library, scientific fields, travel and tourism, business and communication.

Student Organizations

- French Club
- Spanish Club
