

Monday, October 05, 2009

Attention Region VI-NODA,

We are totally amped to be hosting the Southeast Region Orientation Workshop (Region-VI-SROW) for the National Orientation Directors Association (NODA). The theme for SROW is SROWtally 80's in The Ville. All of us at the University of Louisville (UofL) think you will have a radical time during our conference March 12-14, 2010. If you have never been to SROW then you can look forward to ridiculous levels of school spirit, fun competitions, and outrageous educational sessions that will surely send you back to your campuses with new ideas and initiatives to implement into your orientation programs. Those of you that are SROW veterans will notice a few changes to our annual schedule including a graduate school fair, the freedom to come and go between conference hotels and utilize all amenities, events on multiple college campuses in Louisville, and a SROW on a budget website that will have all the 411 about how to spend less on your trip.

SROW is always a primo conference with time to meet new people from other institutions and share some of our best ideas from our own campuses. We are in knee deep in the planning stages for SROW 2010 but have some details listed on our website at: louisville.edu/admissions/orientation/srow2010

Conference registration will not begin until mid to late November 2009 however you can go ahead and book your hotel rooms. Any of the hotels listed on the SROW website are ready for your reservations. Be sure to reference SROW when you call the hotel. Do not let this opportunity pass you by! You don't want to be a SROW wannabe...get into the SROWtally 80's spirit....it's happen'en at UofL. Let us know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Alyssa E. Murphy
Associate Director Undergraduate Admissions,
Director New Student Orientation
Conference Host
alyssa.murphy@louisville.edu

Toree E. Parrish
New Student Orientation Graduate Assistant Conference Co-Host
toree.parrish@louisville.edu