Upcoming Conferences & Community Events

- ◆ The Urban Design Studio is hosting Louisville's 2008 Solar Tour on October 4, 2008. Free events include a 10am brunch and presentations session and a 12pm tour of solar sites. Due to limited seating, you must RSVP before October 2, 2008 in order to attend. Please note that, as of the afternoon of September 22nd, only 20 open seats remain. For more information, contact Cynthia Cooke bashfordmanor@hotmail.com
- ◆ The Boehl Distinguished Lecture in Land Use Policy series presents Vicki Been's lecture, Silver Bullet or Trojan Horse? The Effects of Inclusionary Zoning on Local Housing Markets. The lecture begins at 6pm on October 6, 2008 in Room 275 of the University of Louisville Brandeis School of Law.
- ◆ The Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana Regional Planning Conference is held in Louisville, KY, October 15-17, 2008 at the Downtown Marriott. This year's theme is Planning our Legacy. For more information and online registration, visit www.kapa.org/okiconference.htm.
- ◆ The CEPM and the EFC4 are participants in the Kentucky League of Cities' 2008 KLC Convention & Expo. October 16-19, 2008 at the Downtown Marriot / Convention Center in Louisville, KY. Additional information is available online.
- ◆ 2008 Collegiate Environmental Sustainability Conference, October 23-24, 2008, Spellman College, Atlanta, GA. EFC4 is a participant in a panel discussion on funding sources for green projects.

New Center Resources: Hot off the Presses!

Fae Goodman's Green Building Management practice guide discusses green building management strategies, and offers a wealth of resources for facility owners, managers, and tenants. It explains the categories of building management responsibility and suggests simple but effective changes that can save money and improve environmental quality.

Like all of the Center's Practice Guides, this publication provides urban and regional planners and policy makers with practical, useful tools and is straightforward, easy to apply in the real world, and understandable without any special training or education.
