

President Ramsey and the Commission on the Status of Women want to sponsor an outstanding woman to attend a Higher Education Resource Services (HERS) Institute in 2013. Women faculty members or administrators, with a proven record of professional growth and responsibility, and who have a keen interest in campus administration and achieving institutional priorities and maximizing institutional resources are encouraged to review the institutes and apply for the one that best suits individual circumstances. The Bryn Mawr Summer Institute offers a two-week residential program. The HERS Institute at Wellesley College offers four three-day sessions across the 2013-2014 academic year. The HERS Institute at the University of Denver offers a two-week residential program. Visit the HERS website for more information: <http://www.hersnet.org/Institutes.asp>

HERS Summer Institutes have earned sterling reputations for expanding horizons, providing exposure to new and exciting ideas, fostering enduring mentoring relationships and preparing women for institutional leadership roles. Recent UofL participants include Bridgette Pregliasco, Ph.D. in the College Education & Human Development, Marcia Hern, Ph.D., Dean of the School of Nursing, Deborah Davis Ph.D. Pediatrics Child Development Unit, and Cynthia Logsdon, Ph.D. School of Nursing.

The campus selection process will require that each applicant submit three items: a current CV, a letter describing the applicant's reasons for application and how she will contribute to achieving institutional priorities and maximizing institutional resources and a letter of support from her dean, director, department head or supervisor. Send these items to Georgette Moore glmoor01@louisville.edu

Based on the HERS Institutes application deadline of December 1, 2012, the UofL application deadline is Friday, November 16, 2012. Applications will be reviewed and the outstanding applicant will be selected to apply to her chosen institute and provide required documents by the institute's deadline. For more info e-mail Pamela Feldhoff, PhD at pwfeld01@louisville.edu

Bryn Mawr Concentrated Immersion Format; Dates – June 22, 2013-July 6, 2013

Denver: Concentrated Immersion Format; Dates – July 21, 2013-August 4, 2013

Wellesley: Multiple Session Format; Dates - 10/10-12/13, 11/7-9/13, 2/6-8/14 and 3/13-15/14)