

APPLICANT DIRECTIONS

Please note that there are general admission requirements in the current Graduate School Bulletin and specific requirements for each program. The following must be completed before your application can be considered by the Graduate School and the College of Education and Human Development.

More details and explanations of application items listed below are provided in the respective documents. The list below is intended to serve as an overview of the documents needed to apply for admission to the Ph.D. in Curriculum and Instruction. Please note that some items are sent to the Graduate school and some items are sent directly to the Teaching and Learning Doctoral Program (addresses provided below).

1. Please fill out a Graduate School Application for Admission form (even if you are currently enrolled in a University of Louisville graduate program). See <http://graduate.louisville.edu/students/apply.html/> Submit to the Graduate school (can be done online or in paper form).
2. Using the Letters of Recommendation form provided with the Graduate School Application form (see <http://graduate.louisville.edu/students/application.html>) have three individuals who are familiar with your background as a graduate student or as a professional fill out one each. Submit to the Graduate school.
3. Take the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) and have scores sent to the University of Louisville Graduate school. University of Louisville institution code for score-reporting is 1838.

If you have taken the GRE, have Educational Testing service forward scores to the Graduate school.

4. All foreign students from countries in which English is not the native language must take the TOEFL examination unless they already have a degree from a US institution. Have scores sent to the University of Louisville Graduate school.
5. Have all official non-University of Louisville undergraduate and graduate transcripts sent to the University of Louisville Graduate school. If you earned a bachelor's and/or masters at U of L, we can obtain those transcripts and you do not need to send those.
6. Write a Formal Statement of Goals (further details provided in separate document). Submit to the Teaching and Learning Doctoral Program.
7. Applicants to the Ph.D. in Curriculum & Instruction must have a signed Faculty Mentor/Sponsor form as part of their application. See the document "Faculty Research Interests" to identify appropriate faculty to contact in order to identify potential mentors. Submit to the Teaching and Learning Doctoral Program.
8. Applicants must also provide a current resume or curriculum vita. Submit to the Teaching and Learning Doctoral Program.

NOTE: If you have any questions, please contact the Curriculum & Instruction Ph.D. program coordinator.
