

CHAPTER 5

Social Service Programs: Kentucky Resources

This chapter will discuss ways to explore and access resources specific to the state of Kentucky. The main focus is to provide easy-to-read information concerning available resources and to provide immediate contact information for the purpose of applying for resources and/or locating additional information. You may notice that many of the resources listed in this manual are directly linked to regional Comprehensive Care Centers. Often (and especially with children under the age of three and adults), a local Comprehensive Care Center will be the point of entry for an individual to gain access to many programs and services. For school-aged children and adolescents, the most direct route to services is often through the local public school system.

This product is a version of the resource manual created by the Human Development Institute. The list of resources provided here is not meant to be exhaustive. The purpose is to focus on resources available to individuals with developmental disabilities, though other related resources have been included.

This chapter is organized in the following sections: Services for Youth and Children, Services for Adults, and Services for All Ages. You may wish to consult all of the sections as you look for potential services and programs within this Guide.

Medicaid Waivers

If you have a disability or are considered elderly, Medicaid waiver programs can provide Medicaid coverage for many different services that help you stay in your home. The Department for Medicaid Services (DMS) provides four Waiver programs: Acquired Brain Injury Waiver Program, Home and Community Based Waiver Program, Supports for Community Living Program, Michelle P Waiver Program.

Once you are determined eligible to participate in one of the Medicaid Waiver programs; you will have the choice to use either the Traditional Option or the Consumer Directed Option (CDO). If you choose the Traditional Option, you will receive services from agencies that have been approved by the State to provide Waiver services. If you choose the Consumer Directed Option, you will design your plan of care and hire your own staff to provide services. You can choose a friend, family member, or support broker to help you direct your services. All persons, with the exception of those who are receiving residential services, may choose to use CDO as opposed to the traditional option. The consumer directed option may include a combination of traditional and participant directed services, known as "blended services".

You can choose the Traditional Option and change later to decide that you want the CDO option. Likewise, you can move from the CDO Option to the Traditional Option.

Residential and medical services are not covered under the Consumer Directed Option. Your support broker can advise you about CDO eligible services.

Social Security Administration

The Social Security Administration (SSA) is a government agency that may serve children and adults in different ways. Two common ways that people with disabilities receive resources from the SSA is through Supplemental Security

Insurance and Social Security Disability Income.

Supplemental Security Insurance (SSI)

What is SSI?

The Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program pays benefits to adults with disabilities and children who have limited income and resources. SSI benefits are also payable to people 65 and older without disabilities who meet the financial limits.

Do I qualify for SSI?

To receive SSI, you must be 65 or older or blind or disabled. SSI is based on financial need. You must be determined disabled by the Social Security Administration Disability Determination Office. SSI recipients are automatically eligible for Medicaid.

How can I apply for SSI?

Call the Social Security Administration (SSA) office to schedule an appointment at your local office: Phone: (800) 772-1213.

How can I learn more? <http://www.ssa.gov>

Social Security Disability Income (SSDI)

What is SSDI?

The Social Security disability program (SSDI) pays benefits to an individual and certain family members if you worked long enough and paid Social Security taxes. A person's adult child also may qualify for benefits on your earnings record if he or she has a disability that started before age 22.

Do I qualify for SSDI?

Social Security Disability eligibility is determined on having a disability and your prior work history. Your spouse and other dependents may be eligible for SSDI payments based on your work history. Their income may affect their amount, but their income does not affect the amount that you draw for yourself. Eligibility for both SSI and SSDI is possible if SSDI benefit rates are low enough. If you qualify for SSDI benefits, you will be eligible for Medicare after receiving benefits for two years. At age 65 your SSDI benefits automatically roll over to Social Security Retirement benefits.

How can I apply for SSDI?

Tax Information

Internal Revenue Service: Tax Deductions and Tax Credits for Families

According to IRS rules, a federal tax credit is available for eligible low- and moderate-income individuals and families who work. The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) reduces the amount of tax you owe. In 2001, workers with one eligible child could apply if their income was less than $27,413. You can complete an assessment online to determine if you are eligible at: <http://apps.irs.gov/app/eitc2005/SetLanguage.do?lang=en>

Tax Deductions for Medical Expenses

Eligible medical expenses may be used as a tax deduction under IRS rules. The deduction can be taken only for unreimbursed medical expenses that amount to more than 7.5% of the adjusted gross income. To be eligible, parents must itemize deductions and not take the standard deductions.

Eligible expenses include health insurance payments, dental payments, transportation and hotel costs associated with getting medical care, and costs for assistive technology and durable medical equipment. You can combine the costs of medical care for yourself, your child with a disability, and any other family member to reach the 7.5% limit required.

For more information, contact the IRS at (800) 829-3676 or visit the IRS website at www.irs.gov/taxtopics/tc502.html
