AERA (American Educational Research Association) Fellowships and Grants

AERA fellowships provide mentoring and funding support to graduate students as they develop research skills and conduct studies in education related fields and topics. The Minority Dissertation Fellowship Program in Education Research; the AERA-ETS Fellowship Program in Measurement and Education Research; and the AERA-MET (Measures of Effective Teaching) Dissertation Fellowship are part of this program. In addition AERA funds the Dissertation Grants Program. With support from the National Science Foundation (NSF), this competition seeks to stimulate research on U.S. education issues using data from the large-scale, national and international data sets supported by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), NSF, and other federal agencies and increase the number of education researchers using these data sets. The program supports research projects that are quantitative in nature, include the analysis of existing data from NCES, NSF or other federal agencies and have U.S. education policy relevance. AERA also offers funding to attend special workshops and institutes.
