Whereas, there are more than forty courses at the University of Louisville that require additional fees up to $400 in addition to already paid tuition,

Whereas, the number of courses with associated fees is increasing annually,

Whereas, the University of Louisville strives for transparency,

Whereas, the usage of revenue generated by these fees is not always transparent,

Whereas, the appropriateness of many fees, once established, is not reviewed in detail,

Whereas, the cost of associated fees can be detrimental to the affordability of certain courses to students,

Therefore be it resolved, that the intended use of course fees be made clear to all students enrolled in a course with associated fees,

Further be it resolved, that students in courses with associated fees be given the opportunity to evaluate the usefulness of the fee for its intended purpose
