

The Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP), Federal Medical Center, Lexington Kentucky would like to begin a partnership with our local educational universities. We would like to recruit individuals from said institutions to join our professional, law enforcement staff. We are currently seeking motivated individuals to become a part of this agency which operates inside the Department of Justice.

We recognize the Bureau's real strength is derived from our staff. The BOP "family" is a diverse, well-trained career oriented team with the finest corrections professionals in the country. The Bureau employs approximately 35,000 highly motivated individuals working in a variety of professions, in 115 correctional facilities across the country.

Please encourage all interested students to access our web page at <http://www.bop.gov> in order to explore career opportunities, benefits, application steps and more. We encourage all students to search the positions currently available and complete the application process at <http://www.usajobs.gov>
