

In K. Kim, M.D., M.B.A.

Professor of Pediatrics
Vice Chair, Clinical Operations
Fellowship Director, Pediatric Emergency Medicine
Co-Director, Center for Health Process Innovation
Co-Director, Business and Leadership Distinction Track
Associate Program Director, MD-MBA program
Department of Pediatrics
University of Louisville

Dr. Kim joined the University of Louisville in 2002, and now serves as Vice Chair for Clinical Operation in the Department of Pediatrics. He also serves as Fellowship Director for Pediatric Emergency Medicine, Co-Director of the Center for Health Process Innovation, Co-Director of the Business and Leadership Distinction Track, and Associate Program Director of the UofL MD-MBA program.

Additional roles and accomplishments include:

- Internationally recognized leader in helium-oxygen therapies for pediatric respiratory diseases
- Peer-reviewer for several major medical journals: Pediatrics, Cochrane Database Review, Journal of Pediatrics, Respiratory Care, Pediatric Emergency Care, and Acta Paediatrica.
- Chair, American Academy of Pediatrics Committee, National Section on Emergency Medicine (SOEM) Fellowship Directors
- Regularly invited speaker for the intersection of business and medicine
- Received Outstanding Oral Presentation Award for Graduate Medical Education, American Association of Medical Colleges (AAMC). Teaching the Business of Medicine Across the Continuum of Medical Education
- Received multiple teaching and mentoring awards including the 2009 Excellence in Teaching Award from the University of Louisville Internal Medicine-Pediatrics Program
- Trainees of his pediatric emergency medicine program have won 5 national awards for best research at the American Academy of Pediatrics
- Top 10 (#1) most-read articles by Pediatricians on Medscape/WebMD™ in 2012: Helium/Oxygen Therapy for Infant Bronchiolitis
- Authored or co-authored 22 peer-reviewed publications, 3 book chapters, and 29 national/international abstract presentations

Dr. Kim is a native of upstate New York and graduated from Cornell University. He attended medical school at Weill Cornell Medical College and completed his residency at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children in Philadelphia, PA and fellowship training in pediatric emergency medicine at the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh. He also has a Master's degree in Business Administration from UofL.