Grawemeyer Award in Music Composition at Carnegie Hall

The announcement of the 2007 University of Louisville Grawemeyer Award in Music Composition will be March 8, 2007 at Carnegie Hall in New York City. In addition, the Big East tournament will be held in Madison Square Gardens on March 7-10, 2007.

Recruitment of Endowed Chairs

The President reported that under the Challenge for Excellence the University’s goal was to have 75 endowed chairs by 2008. The University now has 122 endowed chairs. The President recognized Dr. Don Miller as one of the early endowed chairs recruited under “Bucks for Brains” and asked him to update the board on the Brown Cancer Center’s accomplishments.

Dr. Miller noted Kentucky needs better cancer care, citing the following statistics:

- Kentucky ranks 4th in US cancer mortality
- In 2003, 21,094 Kentuckians were diagnosed with cancer and 9,367 died
- Kentucky leads the nation in number of smokers, lung cancer incidence and tobacco related deaths
- Smoking incidence and lung cancer mortality increased in Kentucky during the 1990’s
Dr. Miller provided a brief history of the Brown Cancer Center:

- Established in 1980 with $12 million from the James Graham Brown Foundation and the citizens of Louisville
- Given to the University of Louisville in 1989
- Rapid growth period since 1999 with 86 new faculty and 100-fold growth in research support
- By comparison, Stanford Cancer program shrunk, UK recruited 8-10 new faculty

Dr. Miller recognized the importance of the Challenge for Excellence in creating these programs. Cancer is a huge problem in Kentucky, and many residents smoke. Clearly, this is a time of great growth for cancer research. He referenced ways the program has reciprocated the Challenge for Excellent support:

- Recruitment of 86 faculty into fifteen departments in five schools
- Brown Cancer Center has 24 endowed positions (UAB has 4)
- Eighteen are Bucks for Brains positions
- New endowed chairs
  - Allow recruitment of key faculty
  - Provide ongoing support for new faculty
- Leverage
  - $15 million commitment in 2001 led to Brown Foundation gift of $15 million
  - $5 million commitment in 2005 led to $10 million funding for Wendell Cherry Institute
  - Much of $46 million philanthropy is directly related to Bucks for Brains matches

Dr. Miller discussed the scientific impact of the Brown Cancer Center research support. From the laboratory to the clinic, it provides better care for all citizens in Kentucky. It moves scientific discoveries in cancer to patients as efficiently as possible. He discussed the embryonic stem cell vaccine, GRO Aptamers as Cancer Therapeutics, very small embryonic-like stem cells, cancer cell metabolism, beta-glucan. Dr. Miller noted how ingesting colored berries can prevent development of lung cancer in smoking mice. Research has identified natural compounds in berry extracts which reduce the incidence of cancer in high risk subjects (former smokers). Dr. Miller acknowledged the partnership between the Brown Cancer Center and the Owensboro Cancer Research Center.

Dr. Miller recognized the Brown Cancer Center’s impact on economic development. He summarized the impact of the Institute for Advanced Cancer Therapeutics (IACT):
• Biotech startup company which will be owned by UofL/Brown Cancer Center
• Financed by local investors and pharmaceutical partners
• Will develop new cancer therapeutics from the Brown Cancer Center through Phase I clinical trials
• Will allow the Brown Cancer Center to develop 2-3 new drugs per year

He shared the impact of the Wendell Cherry Clinical Trial Institute:

• Six endowed positions (three $2 million chairs and three $1 million professorships)
• Infrastructure to perform early phase clinical trials
• Statewide clinical network
• Will allow rapid translation of Brown Cancer Center discoveries to early phase trials

Dr. Miller shared future expectations of the Brown Cancer Center:

• Establishment as one of the preeminent cancer centers in the US
• Continued growth of nationally recognized clinical programs and clinical research
• Phase I and II trials – one or two new compounds per year out of our labs
• Development of novel stem cell therapeutics
• Discovery of natural methods of cancer prevention (dietary)

As a former cancer patient, Ms. Loving thanked Dr. Miller for his exceptional work in cancer research. Dr. Hughes noted the clinical trials are very impressive. President Ramsey thanked Dr. Miller for an excellent report.

Shelby Campus

The President briefed the Board on the master plan for the Shelby Campus and groundbreaking for the Biosafety Laboratory. The President identified Junior Bridgeman, Kevin Cogan, Charlie Dahlem, Joyce Hagen, Steve Poe, Sandy Metts Snowden, and Frank Weisberg as nominations for the advisory board to be chaired by Burt Deutsch. The President asked Mr. Deutsch to say a few words. Mr. Deutsch expressed his enthusiasm for this project and its development. Having been deeply involved in the building of Hurstbourne Green, Mr. Deutsch recognized the parallel potential.

Metropolitan College

The President observed the support the University has received from UPS in creating Metropolitan College – an academic opportunity for many Kentuckians to attend the University. Mr. Hindman talked about the concept of students working while attending college. In beginning discussions, UPS and UofL agreed to a non-conventional strategy to recruit students pursuing post secondary degrees and provide UPS the staffing it needed. The partnership created an educational opportunity with tuition support. The program drew students from almost every county in Kentucky. It enhanced UPS’s workforce with dedicated workers and reduced turnover rates. With employees remaining for the duration of their college careers, it created a workforce that helps the City of Louisville recruit companies to the community. He noted over 90 companies have relocated to Louisville to take advantage of this talented workforce pool. Mr. Hindman noted the program’s overwhelming success. The program attracted business and engineering majors. UPS continues to move forward, expanding its workforce and investment. With the excellent program in place, staffing for the current expansion was not a concern. Mr. Hindman thanked President Ramsey and the Board of Trustees for their continued support of the Metropolitan College program. The Board applauded Mr. Hindman. Chair pro tem Snowden cited the newspaper article which referenced a condition for the expansion was the University’s continued support. In response to Mr. Stone’s inquiry concerning the distance from which students utilize this program, Mr. Hindman stated that virtually every county in Kentucky and some out of state students enroll in Metro College.

Steering Committee

The President has informed the Board that he has asked Chester Porter to chair the Steering Committee that will lead the planning process for charting UofL to its goal of becoming a premier metropolitan research university thus meeting the state’s mandate in the higher education reform act.

Joint Board of Trustees and UofL Athletics Association Meeting

The President stated there will be a joint meeting with the UofL Athletics Association Board of Directors to discuss and approve proposals from the Arena Authority regarding the new arena.

VII. Report of the Chairman

Chair pro tem Snowden reported the board met earlier today to review the performance of President James R. Ramsey for the period of 2005-06. The Trustees praised him for an outstanding year of leadership and noted his early accomplishment of the initiatives in the University’s strategic business plan—the Challenge for Excellence. A summary of the evaluation follows:

The Board acknowledged the President, with his leadership team, had a remarkable year, achieving all 22 of the annual goals the Trustees established for 2005-06. The Board also praised the President and his team for tackling many difficult and challenging issues throughout the year and for their excellent results. Examples of the achievements are:
- For the second straight year, attaining all eight of the state diversity goals in the Kentucky Plan;

- Implementing a new Signature Partnership Initiative that engages 351 University faculty, students, and staff in JCPS’ Every1 Reads program, and “adopting” nearby Semple elementary school to improve the school’s performance;

- Enhancing faculty salaries, a 2008 goal in the Challenge for Excellence, to 100% of disciplinary benchmarks in 2006-07—a full year earlier than the target;

- Creating a significant and impressive presence in “Glass” art in our community and laying the foundation for UofL’s Glass/MFA program to be the centerpiece of Museum Plaza;

- Working with Tom Jurich to insure the University’s interests are protected in the community effort to establish a Louisville arena with UofL as its primary tenant and with the community to support economic development;

- Solving the clinical issues in critical units, e.g., Urology, OB/GYN, Surgery, and other programs in the School of Medicine;

- And most importantly, with the Provost’s leadership, increasing retention rates for ALL cohorts of students: Freshmen to Sophomore, Sophomore to Junior, and Junior to Senior.

The Board recognized 2005-06 as an extraordinary year for President Ramsey. The Trustees also noted with enthusiasm the dedicated support of Jane Ramsey in carrying out the University’s initiatives. Her leadership of the Beautification Committee has created a more welcoming and spirited community for students, alumni, neighbors, and all of our university family.

VIII. Adjournment

Mr. Forman made a motion, which Mr. Helman seconded, to adjourn the meeting at 2:15 p.m. The motion passed unanimously.
