Intelligence Preparation of the Beat

40-Hour Training Course - 4.0 CEUs (KLEC Approved)

Tuition: $695 if paid by cash/check /$725 if paid by Visa/MC

Course Description
This course is designed to train patrol officers on the basic foundations of law enforcement intelligence/intelligence-led policing, with a focus on Human Intelligence and Source Development. The course borrows from the U.S. military’s paradigms and experience over the past 10 years conducting counter-insurgency and peacekeeping operations in Afghanistan and Iraq, as well as the basic precepts found in the law enforcement paradigms of Community-Oriented Policing, Problem-Solving Policing, and Intelligence-Led Policing. The literature on the three law enforcement paradigms suggest there are multiple issues and barriers that prevent the adoption of these law enforcement methods; poor relationships between crime analysts and sworn officers, and the existence of “information silos” that prevent sharing of information across departments and agencies.

The course is tailored to the needs of each law enforcement agency or police department. Prior to the course, the instructor will contact an agency or department senior training instructor to conduct a specific training needs assessment based on the agency or department’s mission, size, location, crime analysis capabilities, and other factors that are unique to that agency.

Who Should Attend
