COURSE OBJECTIVE: In Greek 202, 302, 402, students will refine their skills in reading authentic classical Greek poetry, as well as in analyzing grammatical forms and constructions. These objectives will be accomplished through a combination of reading and grammatical analysis drills, and evaluated by means of homework, examinations and in-class participation.

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS: The sequence Greek 101, 102, 201, 202 (or completion of the intermediate level; i.e. Greek 202) generally fulfills the College of Arts and Sciences language requirement. Your program's requirements may vary. Always check with your advisor first!

In accordance with University directives, I am required to say that I reserve the right to make changes to this syllabus when necessary to meet objectives, make up for lost classes, or other such reasons.

* In addition to a higher standard of evaluation, students receiving 300 or 400 level credit will be required to complete an additional assignment: a short presentation on a work of secondary literature about Homer to be delivered on October 15 (see instructor for acceptable bibliography).
