

PhD Program - Student Learning Outcomes Assessment

This information is de-identified and reported to the Provost's office.

Please check appropriate box: Student Faculty Student's last name:

Please provide a rating (1-4) for each section below, with 1 being absent and 4 being clearly evident.

1. Students will gain the ability to write rhetorically effective academic prose.

Sense of audience

Clear focus or purpose

Appropriate use of supporting evidence or detail

Effective and coherent organization

1 2 3 4

2. Students will master research methods appropriate to their chosen subfield and project.

Assessment of and response to relevant primary texts

Incorporation of secondary research into the student's project

Appropriate gathering and interpretation of data

1 2 3 4

3. Students will gain advanced knowledge in the field of Rhetoric and Composition.

Engagement with and contribution to relevant scholarly discussions in the field

1 2 3 4

4. Students will gain the ability to participate in the field of English Studies in way that extend beyond formal coursework. (e.g. teaching, participating in conferences, publishing, and acquiring the knowledge and skills necessary for the teaching and study of Rhetoric and Composition) - This outcome will be assessed by gathering data directly from students and the composition office.

Please add discursive comments: