- SACS – UofL is no longer on probation.
- Board of Trustees – The board meets tomorrow and will announce the Trustees Award.

DISCUSSION & ACTION ITEMS – Owen

- Expanding the use of Academic Analytics – The provost has proposed an increased use of Academic Analytics when recruiting new faculty to see their individual research portfolio. Questions were raised because that information should be included in the CV. Committee members wanted to know what more information is needed beyond that. Senator Mohsen said he has researched the program and that it is a metric only for graduate programs. The Speed School uses it for endowed chairs. It can be a problem if deans do not keep the information strictly on graduate research faculty. Questions about how the program is used to recruit new faculty. Some committee members felt the program could be used as a metric to see who is performing and who is not. The data it generates does not take in a holistic view of a faculty member's activities. A brief discussion took place on how the data would be used. Provost Boehm will present to this committee in January and can address any concerns then.

- Follett Update – A new Bookstore Advisory Committee has been created and Committee Chair Owen is a member. Changes to improve book orders should improve the process. Bookstore manager, Andrea Herrera reported that communication with faculty will improve. She also said that book publishers were behind on printing the books, so they were late in arriving at the bookstore.
- UofL's 2018 Financial Statement – Committee Chair Owen read an Insider Louisville article that reported on UofL's financial statement and would like for this committee to have rudimentary understanding of the statement. Senator Bradshaw also read the article and said it was difficult to understand. Senator Trucios-Haynes said the statement's summary gave a good explanation of what happened. It includes Athletics and the Research Foundation, but not the hospital. It can be difficult to because some budget presentations include HSC entities and other presentations do not. Senator Trucios-Haynes added that the auditor's report addressed all the issues. Many of the HSC issues are still being addressed. The Budget Advisory Committee will be revived and will have faculty participation.

REPORTS: STANDING COMMITTEES

- Academic Programs Committee (APC) – Barker
  - A proposal for a Certificate in Distilled Spirits has been returned for revisions.

  - Kent School bylaw revisions will have its second reading at the January meeting.
  - The changes to A&S documents were not explained to REDBOOK Committee's satisfaction. This angered the A&S committee and it has invited Chair Ferré to its January 7th meeting. Senator Mohsen said a similar effort is happening elsewhere – to make teaching-intensive faculty non-tenure track and research faculty will be tenure-track.
- OTHER COMMITTEES
  - HRAC – The committee met and discussed the data breach of Health Equity. Todd Kneale is going to meet with small groups around campus to see how people feel about the benefits package. There will also be an HR Newsletter to inform employees.

Going back to the financial statement discussion – Senator Trucios-Haynes, referring to page 27, said it shows that practice plans were down $73m in revenue last year. And Athletics were up $23M in revenue last year and only up $4M this year.
