Muhammad Ali Institute for Peace & Justice

The Muhammad Ali Institute for Peace and Justice (MAI) advances the work, study, and practice of peacebuilding, social justice, and violence prevention at the University of Louisville with a focus on developing young leaders. The Ali Center's work is inspired by Muhammad Ali's courage, passion, and conviction, as well as his work as a transformational humanitarian and tireless advocate for freedom, justice, and equality.

Ann Braden Institute for Social Justice Research

The Anne Braden Institute for Social Justice Research, a program within the University of Louisville College of Arts and Sciences, was founded to honor the work and legacy of longtime racial justice organizer, educator, and journalist Anne Braden. The Anne Braden Institute seeks to advance public understanding of the U.S. civil rights movement, both its powerful history and its unfinished agenda of racial and social justice.
