FEATURE ARTICLE

ALEX CLIFTON: CRIME IN VICTORIAN CULTURE

Last fall, I took one of the most rewarding and enjoyable courses of my collegiate career, Dr. Johmann's seminar on Crime in Victorian Culture. I would've been interested in the course by itself--I've always been fascinated by those crazy Victorians--but the travel portion of the course was a unique experience that I wouldn't trade for the world. Spending ten days in London with a group of my peers was a fun and informative way to incorporate some of what we'd covered in our course into a broader learning experience.

One of the most interesting things we saw was the mere physical geography of London itself. We read about the city in works from The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes to Oliver Twist, and it was magical getting to see the city itself. It's easy enough to say something is "in London," but the city is so huge and wildly different from place to place that it helped a lot to see the actual geography and imagine the characters running wild in the streets. We went for a walking tour of Whitechapel, where the Jack the Ripper murders occurred, and it gave me a whole new understanding about what it would've been like to live in the East End of London during the 1880s. We also visited such landmarks as St. Paul's Cathedral, which towers over the city and is mentioned in several works; to stand from the roof of St. Paul's and overlook the city was an incredible experience, better than anything I could've learnt in a book alone.

It was also a novel experience to travel abroad with people my own age. I've been to England several times with my parents to see family, but it was a much different experience being somewhere foreign with my professors and my peers. I know my friendships with a few people in the class became even stronger throughout the trip, and it was an entirely new way to experience a place I had always considered familiar. If you get the opportunity to go on a travel seminar through Honors, take it. There is nothing quite like learning about a faraway place and then getting to experience it for yourself--and it ranks among one of the best experiences I've ever had at UofL. ❁

Alex in front of 221B Baker Street, the address of Sherlock Holmes (in Arthur Conan Doyle's time, addresses in Baker Street did not go that high, but Baker Street was extended in 1932).

The Crime in Victorian Culture students throwing their Ls up at Stonehenge! The seminar also took the class to London Tower Bridge, Windsor Palace, and even Platform № 9¾.

HONORS ADVISING SIGNUPS

Attention Honors students: important advising information follows! If you have not yet already signed up for advising, make sure to do so immediately!

Do I need an appointment with an Honors Advisor?

Only the following students must make appointments with an Honors advisor:

- All HON 101 students.
- All incoming Fall 2013 Honors freshmen enrolled in the College of Arts & Sciences with fewer than 24 hours earned (not including Fall 2013 classes).
- Any current Honors student or Honors Scholar who wishes to take an Honors class or Scholars Seminar in Spring 2014.

The following students are not required to see an Honors advisor:

- Students not currently on Good Standing (or Probation) within Honors or Honors Scholars.
- Honors students (excluding HON 101 students and incoming Fall 2013 A&S freshmen) who do not wish to take an Honors class or Scholars Seminar in Spring 2014.
- Honors students and Honors Scholars planning to graduate by December 2013.

After a couple electronic complications, all Honors students should have received an email from GradesFirst allowing them to sign up for Honors advising appointments. Appointments will begin Monday, September 9 and continue until Wednesday, October 30. Priority registration begins Friday, November 1 at 8:00 AM.

HONORS STUDENT COUNCIL

HONORS VOLUNTEERS PROGRAM

Throughout the academic year, the Honors Volunteers Program (HVP) plans and participates in a wide variety of volunteer service activities. The following are some of the ways you can get involved with HVP in the upcoming weeks:

- To learn more about HVP and the service opportunities available to Honors students, make sure to come out to the second HVP meeting of the year. The next HVP meeting will be held on October 10 from 12:20 to 12:50 PM in the Etscorn Honors Center classroom.
- Reverse Trick-or-Treat with the Family Scholar House is being planned for October 31 at 5:00 PM. Students can meet to carpool from Threlkeld Hall at 4:40 PM.

If you're interested in HVP, make sure to join the listserv for the most up-to-date information. Email Morgan Blair (the leader of the Honors Volunteers Program and Volunteer Vice President of Honors Student Council) at msblai03@louisville.edu to learn more about HVP, to be added to the listserv, or to RSVP for the Reverse Trick-or-Treat event.

THE WHITE SQUIRREL LITERARY MAGAZINE

Once upon a time, The White Squirrel (the University of Louisville's Literary and Arts Magazine) was part of Honors Student Council. A couple years ago it became its own registered student organization, but Honors Student Council and the Honors Program are still happy to support this vibrant and successful magazine.

If you're interested in becoming an editor for The White Squirrel, make sure to check out their Editor Interest Meeting, being held on September 24 and 25 from 6:00-7:00 PM, in the Honors Etscorn Classroom.

If you have any questions about The White Squirrel or the Editor Interest Meeting, contact Tessa Withorn, the Co-Editor-in-Chief, at trwith01@louisville.edu.

NATIONAL RESIDENCE HALL HONORARY

The Cardinal Chapter of the National Residence Hall Honorary needs your help in growing our chapter. The National Residence Hall Honorary (NRHH) is a resident student run organization that strives to acknowledge those who make a deliberate choice to remain in the residence halls and better their living and learning environment through leadership, service, programming, and role modeling. It is made up of the top one percent of resident student leaders on our campus.

We are now taking nominations for potential new members for our chapter. Requirements to be a member in NRHH include: 1. being an on campus resident and 2. having completed at least one semester of college (12 credits hours, thus no incoming freshmen). New members will need to exhibit leadership attributes, meet high academic standards, and be willing to challenge themselves to grow and develop with other leaders. This year we will be putting an emphasis on the service element of NRHH, and so we request that these nominees also have community service experience or are willing to dedicate some of their time to the University and Louisville communities. To nominate, send the name and contact info (if known) of the nominee to NRHHCardinalChapter@gmail.com by Thursday, September 19, 2013 at 11:59 P.M.

If you have any questions, please contact Joel Houlette, NRHH President at jthoul01@louisville.edu or Ashley Hazen, NRHH advisor at ashley.hazen@louisville.edu.

TAKE BACK THE NIGHT

The 2013 Take Back the Night will be held on Tuesday, September 24 from 5:30-7:30 PM in the Red Barn! We are so inspired by the people who have spoken out against injustice at great personal risk that our theme is: The Power to Speak! The Power to Hear! The Power to Act! We invite you to join us as we listen to their powerful stories.

Our keynote speaker this year is Susan Burke, who is spearheading a nationwide series of lawsuits designed to reform the manner in which the military prosecutes rape and sexual assault. Her work on this project is the subject of a documentary premiering at Sundance called The Invisible War, which we will be screened at the Floyd Theater at 2:30 PM on September 24.

Take Back the Night 2013 will also include:

- Speak-out Session, a candlelight vigil and march around campus.
- Remarks by UofL Provost Shirley Willihnganz, Mayor Greg Fischer, and Congressman Yarmuth. Angie Fenton of WHAS 11 will be the master of ceremonies.
- Teens from the LouMetro PACT in Action will present their program “Young & PreventinIt”.
- An interactive art project created around the statement, “I am Taking Back the Night for...”.
- Drumming, musical, and poetry performances from students across the LouMetro Community.
- Men of PEACC volunteers will organize our “Green Dot STRONG Pledge Campaign”.
- Recognition of the Green Dot She-Ro award.

For more details, contact the PEACC Program at 502-852-2663 or peacc@louisville.edu. A complete listing of our Week Without Violence (September 18-24) can be found at www.louisville.edu/peacc/
