

AFTER FERGUSON: HOW TO MOVE FORWARD

DIVERSITY & INCLUSION LUNCH & LEARN

Featuring guest speaker:
Ricky L. Jones, Ph.D.

Dr. Jones is a Professor and Chair of the University of Louisville, Pan-African Studies Department. He is the author of Black Haze: Violence, Sacrifice, and Manhood in Black Greek-Letter Fraternities and What's Wrong with Obamamania?: Black America, Black Leadership, and the Death of Political Imagination. He has also written scores of scholarly and magazine articles, book chapters, and opinion columns.

The death of Michael Brown and subsequent events and protests in Ferguson, Missouri and around the U.S. has left many people feeling unsure about how to move forward in regards to structural racism. In January's Lunch and Learn, Dr. Ricky Jones will talk about these issues, Louisville's struggles and how we all have a role in moving forward.

Lunch will be provided. Please RSVP to hscodi@exchange.louisville.edu by Monday, January 12, 2015

Friday, Jan.
16, 2015
Noon – 1pm
Kornhauser
Library
Auditorium

HSC OFFICE of DIVERSITY and INCLUSION

323 East Chestnut Street, 502 Abell Administration Bldg., Louisville, KY 40202
(502) 852-7159 - www.louisville.edu/medicine/diversity