

PH.D. PROGRAM IN HUMANITIES

Department of Comparative Humanities University of Louisville

- ▶ A unique interdisciplinary and professionalizing program across the Humanities departments and the College of Arts & Sciences.
- ▶ Students in our program tailor coursework around individual interests.
- ▶ The program is grounded in both historical and global perspectives on thought, the arts, and culture.
- ▶ Through our Professional Projects, our program is tied to institutions and organizations in the community, across the nation, and around the world.
- ▶ Full Time and Part Time options of study are available.
- ▶ Our Graduate Teaching Assistants are trained by our faculty through an innovative, team-teaching model.
- ▶ Our GTAs are also trained in on-line teaching and active learning.
- ▶ The teaching load for our GTAs is only three courses per year.
- ▶ All qualifying candidates for this program are considered for the Graduate School's University Fellowships or Diversity Scholarships.
- ▶ All funded students receive a $18,000 yearly stipend, tuition remission, and health insurance. The award, coupled with lower-than-average costs of living in the Kentuckiana area, make the University of Louisville an ideal place.
- ▶ The department offers travel and research scholarship for eligible students.

Visit our website: louisville.edu/humanities/graduate/phd.

For more information about the program or about the admissions process, please contact: humphd@louisville.edu