Area of Interest

My research interests are in intergenerational trauma within the Korean American community and how protective factors such as family, community partners, and houses of worship serve as mechanisms for both individual and community resilience. [Specifically in the area of maternal wellness, the intersectionality of culture and trauma, and Bowlby's attachment theory. My social work practice area of interest are the following, macro practice, social work education, Intergenerational Trauma, and implementation of trauma-responsive cultural practices.

Area of Interest

My practice interest are the mentally ill, persons who are dually diagnosed, and trauma survivors. I consider myself connected to attachment theory as the foundation of how I practice. I can venture to say that 80% of the persons that I work with in the adult population struggle with early childhood trauma affected by attachment issues from primary caregivers. Another interest that I am exploring is incest within families and across generations.
