We Question While We Walk:

Building Community through Popular Education in Albany Park, Chicago
with Isabel Valenzuela and Alejandro Monzón

Isabel and Alejandro will share lessons from their work in popular education in the immigrant neighborhood of Albany Park, Chicago. The Centro Autónomo is home to a bilingual adult high school and transnational "reverse service learning". Their talk will have important lessons for anyone interested in immigrant rights, radical pedagogy, community building, and the fight to change the world.
