

BlackBoard Usage

Updated: July 14, 2009

Copyright law protects nearly all of the learning materials and resources used in this course and prohibits further distribution and dissemination of them. These materials and resources are provided solely for the use by students enrolled in the course, and students are solely responsible for complying with the copyright law. Further information about copyright is available on the web from the United States Copyright office: <http://www.copyright.gov> .