

STUDENT HANDBOOK: GRADUATE PROGRAM IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

College of Arts & Sciences

University of Louisville

Version: August 10, 2022

Table of Contents

- I. General information and faculty listing
- II. Academic program for the M.A.
 - a. Fields of study
 - b. Core courses
 - c. Requirements for the thesis option
 - d. Requirements for the non-thesis/directed research option
 - e. Accelerated BA/BS – MA
 - f. Dual Degree (JD/MA)
- III. Administrative information
 - a. Admission
 - b. Non-degree status
 - c. Academic advising and orientations
 - d. Early registration
 - e. Grading system
 - f. Academic standing
 - g. Plagiarism and cheating
 - h. Program duration, time limits
 - i. Master’s candidacy
 - j. Application for degrees
 - k. Email accounts
- IV. Other important information
 - a. Financial assistance
 - b. Student organizations
 - c. Professional development
 - d. Graduate student honors
 - e. Parental/family/medical leave
 - f. Sexual harassment policy

D. FACULTY LISTING: See Department website for phone, email, and office information.

David Buckley

Paul Weber Endowed Chair in Politics, Science, and Religion

Interim Director of the Center for Asian Democracy

Ph.D., Georgetown University

Associate Professor

Religion and Democracy, Political Islam, Ethnic Conflict, Survey and Experimental Research

Julie M. Bunck

Honors Advisor

Ph.D., University of Virginia

Professor

Comparative Politics, Latin America, International Relations.

Anne I. Caldwell

Ph.D., University of Notre Dame

Associate Professor

Queer Theory, Feminist Theory, LGBTQ Politics, Contemporary Political Theory

Dewey M. Clayton

Ph.D., University of Missouri

Professor

American Politics, African-American Politics

Adam Enders

Ph.D., Michigan State University

Associate Professor

American Politics, Public Opinion, Political Psychology, Quantitative Methods

Jasmine L. Farrier

Ph.D., University of Texas

Professor

American Political Development, Presidency and Congress

Michael R. Fowler

J.D., Harvard University

Professor

International Law, International Organizations, Negotiation and Conflict Resolution

Jason Gainous

Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

Ph.D., University of Florida

Professor

Political Behavior, Social Media and Politics

Kristopher Grady
Undergraduate Advisor
Ph.D., Michigan State University
Assistant Professor
International Relations

Tricia J. Gray
Department Chair
Ph.D., Miami University
Associate Professor
Latin American Politics, International Relations, Gender and Politics

Shiping Hua
Director, Asian Studies Program
Ph.D., University of Hawaii
Professor
Comparative Politics, East Asia

David L. Imbroscio, Internship Advisor
Ph.D., University of Maryland
Professor
Urban Politics, Political Economy

Siddhant Issar
Ph.D., University of Massachusetts
Assistant Professor
Race and Political Theory, Contemporary Political Theory

Cathryn Johnson
Ph.D., Indiana University
Assistant Professor
Comparative Politics, African Politics, Gender and Politics, Qualitative Methods

Melissa K. Merry
Ph.D., University of Washington
Associate Professor
Public Policy, Social Media and Politics, Environmental Politics

Laura P. Moyer
Graduate Advisor
Ph.D., University of Georgia
Associate Professor
Law and Courts, Gender and Politics, Race and Politics, Quantitative Methods

Rodger A. Payne
Ph.D., University of Maryland
Professor
International Relations, Security, Environmental Politics

Sherri L. Wallace

Interim Associate Dean for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

Ph.D., Cornell University

Professor

African American Politics, Urban Politics

Charles E. Ziegler

Grawemeyer Award Director

Ph.D., University of Illinois

Professor

Comparative Politics, Foreign Policy, Russia and Central Asia

II. ACADEMIC PROGRAM FOR THE MASTER OF ARTS DEGREE

A. OVERVIEW

The Department of Political Science offers the Master of Arts (M.A.) degree in Political Science. Students may select from one of two main options for their graduate studies:

1) the Thesis option, and 2) the Non-Thesis option. Both options offer students training in the full range of fields of study. In addition, students may enroll in the accelerated B.A. (or B.S.) – M.A. program, or the dual JD/MA program with Brandeis Law School.

B. THE M.A. IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

The M.A. provides students with broad training in the major fields of study in Political Science. Beyond the requirements outlined below, the curriculum is flexible to allow students to design their own program of study. The Department of Political Science (and the larger University community) enjoys especially strong faculty in two fields of study: International Politics and American Politics. Students are encouraged to concentrate their coursework in one of these fields.

The field of International Politics includes comparative politics and international relations. Members of the Department faculty are experts in the politics of Africa, Latin America, the Middle East, Asia, North America, and Europe; they also study human rights, international law, diplomacy, religion and political violence, and climate change, among many other areas. The Center for Asian Democracy also has dedicated faculty and post-doctoral students who lend their expertise to the Department and organize public events.

The field of American Politics involves the study of U.S. political institutions, political behavior, and public policy. Members of the Department faculty possess expertise in law and public policy, political psychology, race and American politics, judicial decision making, religion and democracy, environmental policy, gender, sexuality, and politics, and urban politics.

1. CORE COURSES

The M.A. program includes 18 hours of required core courses. All students must successfully complete the following required courses (6 hours). It is recommended that these courses be completed during the first year:

- POLS 670 (Research Design)
- POLS 671 (Introduction to Data Analysis)

Students must also successfully complete the following 4 core seminars (12 hours):

- POLS 619 (Seminar in Public Policy)
- POLS 629 (Seminar in American Politics)
- POLS 639 (Seminar in International Relations)
- POLS 649 (Seminar in Comparative Politics)

In addition to the core courses, all students must successfully complete a culminating project.

- Students pursuing the Thesis Option must take 6 hours of Thesis Guidance (POLS 699), typically over their last two semesters.
- Students pursuing the Non-Thesis Option must take 3 hours of Directed Research (POLS 695) in their last semester.

2. 500-LEVEL CREDIT

Students in the M.A. program normally will take coursework numbered 600 or above.

- Non-thesis students may take up to 9 hours of coursework at the 500 level.
- Thesis-option students may take up to 6 hours coursework at the 500 level.
- Students enrolling in 500-level courses must meet all the requirements for graduate-level credit set by the instructor of the course.
- Internship classes offered at the 500-level count toward the limit on 500-level classes. (Students doing the internship option for their Directed Research project will enroll in POLS 695.)

3. INDEPENDENT STUDY CREDIT

Students may take up to 3 hours of independent study credit (POLS 691) under the supervision of a faculty member.

4. INTERNSHIP CREDIT

Students may take up to 6 hours of internship credit in POLS 510 and 511 under the supervision of a faculty member. These hours count toward the limit on 500-level credit. Note that the total number of credits received from internship credit and independent study credit may not exceed 6 hours. In particular, students may take six hours of internship credit, or three hours of internship credit and three hours of independent study credit. In addition, students in the Non-Thesis track may propose an internship for their Directed Research Project (POLS 695). Please see the section on Directed Research projects for more information.

5. ELECTIVE CREDIT

Students are encouraged to enroll in courses offered by other departments, if such courses meet their particular educational or career objectives. With the approval of the Graduate Advisor, up to 6 hours of coursework may be taken outside the Political Science Department. Generally, approved courses are offered by the disciplines closely related to Political Science (e.g. history, law, public administration, sociology, economics, communication, geography, justice administration). Coursework from other disciplines also may be approved if a student can demonstrate its relevance to the study of Political Science.

6. TRANSFER CREDIT

Earned graduate credit may be transferred from accredited institutions that offer advanced degrees. The maximum number of semester hours normally transferable is 6 hours. Students requesting transfer credit must produce the required documentation to show that the course meets the standards set by the Department of Political Science for graduate credit. This documentation will include the official transcript, course syllabus, and copies of all assignments completed for the course. Credits that have been applied to any other degree may not be transferred. Credit earned more than three years prior to the student's application to the Graduate School of the University of Louisville will not usually be considered for transfer. Only courses in which the student earned grades of "B" or better will be considered for transfer. Hours and quality points earned at other institutions are not included in the calculation of a student's GPA. Students may initiate the transfer of credits after they have enrolled in their first semester of coursework.

7. COURSE LOADS

Full-time study is defined as 9 hours of credit during the fall or spring semester or during the summer session (both terms). The maximum number of hours that may be taken in a semester or summer session is 12. Any student seeking to enroll in more than the maximum number of hours must petition the Unit dean for permission.

8. THESIS OPTION

a. Introduction

Students who choose the thesis option must complete 24 hours of coursework and 6 hours of Thesis Guidance (POLS 699) for a total of 30 hours. The six hours of Thesis Guidance can be taken in one semester, usually the final semester of the student's degree program, but is typically taken over two semesters.

The thesis should be an original contribution to the discipline, show an awareness of scholarly work relevant to the thesis topic, and employ methods appropriate to the development of an extended academic project. A thesis is typically between 60 and 85 pages in length and consists of multiple chapters.

The thesis is prepared under the supervision of a faculty advisor who serves as chair of the thesis committee. The student selects a topic in consultation with the advisor and develops the content, approach, and presentation with the advisor's approval and support.

Students considering the thesis option should examine recent theses completed in the Political Science Department to get a clear sense of the expectations and standards associated with thesis-writing. These theses are available through Ekstrom Library at this link: https://ir.library.louisville.edu/pols_etd/

The student provides an oral defense of the completed thesis before a committee of three faculty members prior to submitting the thesis to the Graduate School.

b. Thesis committee

The committee includes the chair, who must be a member of the Political Science Department's graduate faculty; a second faculty member from Political Science, who must have graduate faculty member status; and a member of the graduate faculty from outside the Political Science Department.

c. Procedures for the thesis option

Students who choose the thesis option must follow specific steps. Please note that all required forms can be found on the Graduate School website under the Current Students tab.

1. Meet with the Graduate Advisor to discuss, in general terms, the thesis project, faculty members who might be suitable for the thesis committee, and requirements for completion of the project. This should occur in the first year of the program.
2. Identify the chair of the thesis committee. The student will secure agreement from a member of the graduate faculty from the Political Science Department to act as chair of the thesis committee. At this time, the chair of the thesis committee should assist the student in selecting the other two members of the committee (one from the department and one from outside the department). It is the responsibility of the committee chair and the student to see to it that all required procedures are followed.
3. Fill out the Thesis / Dissertation Advisory Committee Appointment form and submits the form to Brooke Ryder, who will forward it to the Graduate School. This form requires the signatures of all members of the committee.
4. Complete the Thesis/Independent Study form for POLS 699 with a detailed plan of work description and submits it to their thesis supervisor who signs. They will then send the form to the Graduate Advisor who signs and sends it to the Department Chair to sign. The Chair then sends the form to the A&S Deans office where they will approve the form and forward to the registrar's office who will enroll you in the Thesis Hours course (POLS 699).
5. Write the prospectus and secure approval from committee. The chair of the thesis committee should supervise the preparation of the prospectus and give final approval for review by the second reader on the committee. The prospectus is then submitted to the Graduate Advisor, along with a proposed thesis committee. The prospectus must be approved by both the chair of the thesis committee and the second reader on the committee at least 4 months prior to the final oral defense (e.g., December 15 for a May degree, April 1 for an August degree, August 1 for a December degree).
6. Write each section of the thesis, getting feedback for revisions from chair. The student should work in close consultation with the committee chair and, if appropriate, other members of the thesis committee. At a minimum, the student should be in contact with the faculty sponsor every 2-3 weeks throughout the term. The student is expected to submit at least one rough draft of the paper to the faculty sponsor and incorporate faculty feedback into the final draft.

7. Schedule the oral defense. After the thesis has met the approval of the committee chair and, if appropriate, other members of the thesis committee, the committee chair schedules the oral defense of the work.

- Each member of the committee must receive a clean copy of the thesis at least 2 weeks before the scheduled oral defense.
- At least 2 weeks prior to the defense, the student must arrange to submit a Thesis / Dissertation Final Oral Examination Schedule form to the Graduate School. (The electronic form can be found at the Graduate School website.)
- Final approval of the thesis is made by the three members of the thesis committee, who must each sign the Electronic Thesis Signature Page form (available from the Graduate School website).

8. Format the thesis consistent with Graduate School guidelines. The thesis must include a 150-word abstract. Other submission and formatting information is available from the Graduate School website. Students should email Courtney Kerr (clkerr01@louisville.edu) several weeks prior to the submission deadline to schedule an appointment to review and secure approval of the format of the thesis.

9. Submit the completed thesis to the Graduate School after receiving approval on formatting. In keeping with the deadlines established by the Graduate School, the student must submit the following:

- One electronic copy with original signatures to the Graduate School.
- One copy to the thesis advisor.
- One copy to the Graduate Advisor.

d. Thesis prospectus

The prospectus lays the foundation for the thesis. Given the importance of the document, the student should seriously consider registering for 3 of the 6 Thesis Guidance credits during the semester in which the prospectus is being written. The student would register for the remaining 3 credits in the following semester, during which the thesis is being completed.

The prospectus for a master's thesis should be about 8-12 double-spaced pages, including the bibliography.

The M.A. prospectus serves as a proposal and overview of the project, outlining how the research question fits into the existing literature, the tentative theoretical argument and hypotheses, a timeline and process for data collection, and the contributions (“so what”) of the project. The bibliography should list the relevant primary and secondary material.

Once the prospectus is completed, it must be approved by the chair of the thesis committee as well as the second reader in the Department of Political Science. (A face-to-face meeting of the student, the thesis committee chair, and the second reader is highly advisable. If the faculty members of the thesis committee have significant reservations about the thesis project, the student will be asked to revise and resubmit the prospectus.)

After the thesis chair and the second reader have given their approval, the prospectus must be sent to the Graduate Advisor, who will confirm with the committee members that they have approved the project.

If the student cannot address the concerns of the committee members, the student should seriously consider switching to the Non-Thesis Option.

Switching from thesis track to non-thesis track will entail additional course work to achieve the 36 credit hours required for a non-thesis degree.

9. NON-THESIS (DIRECTED RESEARCH) OPTION

a. Introduction

Students who choose the non-thesis option must complete 33 hours of coursework and 3 hours of Directed Research (POLS 695) for a total of 36 hours. The “directed research” may take one of three forms, described below. A student should carefully consider their career goals when determining which option is most appropriate.

- Option A. A directed research paper conducted under the supervision of a single departmental faculty member. This is the most common option.
- Option B. An internship and significant associated writing supervised by a department faculty member.
- Option C. An applied project in which a student, working with a department faculty member, draws on existing coursework to produce an original portfolio of career-relevant professional products. Applied projects could include, but are not limited to, policy proposals, grant proposals, or social media campaigns.

Option A (the directed research paper) should be based on prior work the student has done in one or more graduate seminars. It is recommended that the project develop one of the student’s strongest seminar papers. Directed research papers are typically between 25 and 35 pages in length and consist of distinct sections and sub-sections. The paper involves substantially revising and probably reframing previously written work. It will entail fresh primary and secondary research and careful integration of the new material into the initial work the student has done on the topic.

b. Procedures for directed research papers

Students who choose the non-thesis option must follow specific steps:

1. Meet with the Graduate Advisor to discuss, in general terms, which option they are pursuing, faculty members who might be suitable for supervising the work, and requirements for completion of the project. This should occur in 2nd or 3rd semester of the program.
2. Secure commitment from a faculty member in the Department to supervise POLS 695. It is the responsibility of the faculty sponsor and the student to ensure that all required procedures are followed.

3. Register for POLS 695 (Directed Research), regardless of which option has been selected. Students doing Option B (internship) will still register for POLS 695. Use the Independent Study/Internship/Research form found on the Department graduate student website. After the supervising faculty signs the form, send the form to the Graduate Advisor who signs and sends it to the Department Chair to sign. The Chair then sends the form to the A&S Deans office where they will approve the form and forward to the registrar's office who will enroll the student in POLS 695.
4. Write a prospectus, following the guidance in the following section. The faculty sponsor should supervise the preparation of the prospectus and give final approval. The approved prospectus is then submitted to the Graduate Advisor. The prospectus must be approved at least 3 months before the end of the semester in which the student intends to complete the directed research paper (February 1 for the spring semester, May 1 for the summer semester, September 1 for the fall semester). The student should not expect a response from the Graduate Advisor; approval by the faculty sponsor is sufficient to launch the project.
5. Execute the project, incorporating feedback from the faculty supervisor. At a minimum, the student should be in contact with the faculty sponsor every 2-3 weeks throughout the semester. The sponsor has discretion to determine the deadline for receipt of the finished paper or final project, but in any case, the paper must be given to the sponsor in time for her or him to evaluate it and submit a grade at the end of the semester. There is no oral defense.
6. Submit the paper or culminating project to the Graduate Advisor. After the paper or project has been submitted to the supervising faculty member, it should also be emailed to the Graduate Advisor. Failure to do so may delay the conferral of the student's degree.

c. Directed Research Prospectus

The prospectus must be approved at least three months before the end of the semester in which the student intends to complete the directed research paper.

The prospectus for a directed research paper, internship, or project should be about three pages double-spaced. It should include a title page with the student's name, the title of the project, the supervising faculty's name, and the semester/year.

For Option A (directed research paper), the prospectus will indicate what existing work is being expanded (e.g., a previous seminar paper), what preliminary work the student has completed, and a plan for the remaining work. It should include a bibliography (not included in the 3 pages).

For Option B (internship), the prospectus will provide a clear description of the organization/employer, the responsibilities of the intern, details on how the internship links to previous coursework, the types of writing assignments that the faculty advisor expects as well as a schedule, and a bibliography.

For Option C (applied project), the prospectus will provide a clear plan for the construction of the portfolio and how the components link to existing coursework. A bibliography must be provided.

10. THESIS PROJECTS AND DIRECTED RESEARCH PAPERS COMPARED

Thesis projects and directed research papers differ mainly in length and the amount of research required to complete them. A thesis project entails a sustained effort over more than a single semester, while a directed research paper can be finished in one semester. A student should choose the thesis track only if he or she has completed enough course work to provide the necessary background for undertaking a thesis project and is able to work consistently and independently on what is likely to be the biggest project the student has ever undertaken. Writing a thesis should not be seen as an easy way to avoid the additional course work required for a non-thesis degree. Indeed, some students may find that 24 hours of course work has not prepared them to write a thesis.

Thesis projects and directed research papers are similar in that both require the student to develop an original approach to a topic relevant to study of politics, situate the proposed research in the relevant literature on the topic, identify a suitable methodology for carrying out the research, and deal with the limitations of research that are inherent in the study of politics. If well-executed, either option provides a student with a high-quality writing sample suitable for submission when applying to a Ph.D. program.

11. HUMAN SUBJECTS IN RESEARCH

If the thesis project or directed research paper involves human subjects (e.g., surveys, experiments, interviews, focus groups), the student will need to apply for Human Subjects Review through the University of Louisville IRB. Note that both the student and the faculty member who is supervising the student must obtain certification for doing research that involves human subjects. This requirement does not apply to research based on secondary analysis of existing data collected by another entity.

C. ACCELERATED PROGRAM

The Department of Political Science also offers its undergraduate majors an opportunity to earn both a BA (or BS) degree and an MA degree at an accelerated pace.

This program allows students to complete one semester (9 credit hours) of graduate coursework while enrolled as undergraduate students. Typically, students finish their MA degrees within 3 semesters of completing their undergraduate degrees. Students in the accelerated program may choose either the Thesis or Non-Thesis option, just like any other student.

Students must apply no earlier than the second semester of their junior year.

D. DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM (JD/MA)

1. Introduction

The Louis D. Brandeis School of Law and the Department of Political Science of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Graduate School have developed a program for interdisciplinary studies that will result in dual degrees in Law and Political Science. The program recognizes the many connections among politics, government, and law. Students interested in these connections will have a unique opportunity to explore them in the course of completing the dual degree program. Students enrolled in the program will also acquire interdisciplinary skills in research and writing. The program will prepare students to pursue a wider variety of career options than either the J.D. or the M.A. alone would provide.

A student participating in the dual degree program will be able to combine Law courses and Political Science courses to create a well-defined concentration of study. Examples of such concentrations include environmental law and politics, negotiations and dispute resolution, international law and politics, comparative law and politics, civil rights and liberties, constitutional law and politics, and race, law, and politics.

2. Admission requirements

The J.D. / M.A. program is open to all students who have successfully completed a baccalaureate degree at an accredited college or university. To be admitted into the program, the student must (1) apply to, (2) meet the admission requirements of, and (3) be accepted by both the School of Law and the Department of Political Science.

In addition, students currently enrolled only in the Political Science M.A. program must apply to the School of Law prior to completing 18 credit hours of M.A. course work. Students currently enrolled only in the School of Law must apply to the M.A. program prior to completing the first semester of the second year of law school.

Upon admission to both schools, students must submit a letter of intent and a proposed course of study to the School of Law or to the Department of Political Science, depending on where they first intend to take courses, or in which they are currently taking courses. A copy of the letter must also be sent to the appropriate office of the other program. Students will need to plan their four-year course of study carefully, taking into account the sequence and the availability of course offerings in each program. Successful applicants will be notified of the procedures to follow in pursuing the J.D./M.A. course of study.

3. Curriculum requirements

Candidates in the J.D. / M.A. program must complete 81 hours in the J.D. curriculum (instead of the normal 90 hours) and either 21 hours in the M.A. curriculum (instead of the normal 30 hours) for the Thesis Option or 27 hours in the M.A. curriculum (instead of the normal 36 hours) for the Non-thesis Option.

Nine hours from each program can be counted as electives in the other program to give the student the requisite hours for both the J.D. and M.A. degrees. M.A. credit will be applied to the J.D. degree on a pass/fail basis only. J.D. credit will be applied to the M.A. degree on a graded basis; only law courses in which the student has earned a “B” or better may be transferred. Only M.A. courses approved by the Law Dean’s Office may be applied to the J.D. degree. Likewise, only J.D. courses approved by the Graduate Advisor in Political Science will be applied to the M.A. degree.

Students should consult the handbooks for each program for complete listings of degree requirements. Students must complete the requirements for both degrees before either degree is awarded.

III. ADMINISTRATIVE MATTERS

A. ADMISSION

Applicants selected for the program have generally earned at least a 3.0 undergraduate GPA overall or a 3.2 undergraduate GPA in the last 60 credit hours or the equivalent. The deadlines for admission are: July 15 (Fall semester), November 15 (Spring semester)

B. NON-DEGREE STATUS

In exceptional circumstances, a student seeking eventual admission into the graduate program and holding a baccalaureate degree will be advised to register for courses in non-degree status. If the student wishes to apply the hours earned under non-degree status, he or she must gain prior approval from the Graduate Advisor for the specific courses to be taken. The student’s performance in these approved courses will be used as a part of the evaluation of her or his application. Normally, the maximum number of hours taken in non-degree status that can be applied toward the M.A. degree is six. If the courses offered are at the 500-level, the student must let the instructor know he or she plans eventually to obtain graduate credit for these courses. This ensures the instructor holds the student to the graduate-level requirements and standards set for the course. A student wishing to apply these 500-level hours to the graduate program must demonstrate that she or he has met the graduate-level requirements and standards set by the instructor. Also note that students registering in non-degree status must obtain the permission of the instructor to enroll in any course numbered 600 or above.

C. ACADEMIC ADVISING AND ORIENTATIONS

All new students are required to meet with the Graduate Advisor to receive academic advising. It is highly recommended that continuing students meet with the Graduate Advisor at least once while taking courses. Students are required to meet with the Graduate Advisor prior to embarking on a thesis or directed research project. Students are also encouraged to seek academic advising from other members of the Department faculty, especially those with whom they share academic interests. All students (new and continuing) should attend the orientation session(s) and reception(s) offered by the Department of Political Science and the Graduate School. Students will be notified of the dates, times, and locations of these events.

D. EARLY REGISTRATION

Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of early registration. This helps ensure a seat in desired courses and helps the instructor plan the logistics of the class. Graduate courses need a minimum of five students in order to be offered. Early registration for the Spring semester is generally held in October; for the Fall semester it is held in March or April. Continuing students will find that they are not able to register if an advising flag has been placed on their record. Contact the departmental Program Assistant to remove the flag.

E. GRADING SYSTEM

The grading system for the graduate program, along with the quality points accruing for each letter grade, is as follows: A+ (4.0), A (4.0), A- (3.7), B+ (3.3), B (3.0), B- (2.7), C+ (2.3), C (2.0), C- (1.7), D+ (1.3), D (1.0), D (0.7), F (0.0).

“W” means withdrew and carries no quality points. No student may withdraw from any course after mid-semester. In exceptional cases, the Graduate Dean may grant a student’s request to withdraw from courses because of illness or conditions beyond the student’s control. “I” means work in course is incomplete. If the work is not completed by the end of the next term, regardless of whether the student is enrolled, the “I” automatically becomes an “F.” “X” means coursework has not been finished because of the nature of the research or study involved, e.g. continuing thesis work.

The maximum number of “C” hours (C+, C, or C-) that can count toward the degree is 6. Although D and F will be calculated in the student’s grade point average, courses in which these grades have been earned will not be counted toward the fulfillment of degree requirements. A student who has received the grade of C, D, or F may repeat the course upon the approval of the Graduate Advisor and the Graduate Dean. When a student repeats a course, the grade point average will be calculated on the basis of the last grade earned, although all previous grades will remain on the transcript. No courses being applied to the M.A. degree can be taken Pass/Fail (unless the student is in the non-degree program).

F. ACADEMIC STANDING

To remain in good standing a student must maintain an overall graduate grade point average of 3.0 or higher. A student must be in good standing in order to be graduated from the M.A. program. A student whose graduate GPA falls below 3.0 will be placed on probation until the student regains a 3.0 average or is dismissed. Students are ordinarily not permitted to continue on probation for more than one semester.

G. PLAGIARISM AND CHEATING

The term “academic dishonesty” means obtaining or seeking to obtain an unfair academic advantage for oneself or for any other student. It includes cheating, plagiarism, fabrication of data or results, falsification of documents or forms, multiple submission without prior authorization, or being complicit in any of these actions. Each student is advised to become familiar with the various forms of academic dishonesty as explained in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities. A plea of ignorance is not acceptable as a defense against the charge of academic dishonesty. Students found responsible for violations may face permanent dismissal from the University.

H. PROGRAM DURATION, DEGREE PROGRESS, AND TIME LIMITS

Full-time students normally complete the M.A. degree in two years. Students enrolled in the accelerated B.A. (or B.S.)/M.A. program typically complete the degree in three semesters. All graduate students are expected to make steady and satisfactory progress toward the completion of the degree. Students who fail to enroll for a period of more than 12 months will be considered to have withdrawn from the program. Students who seek to return after such a period may be required to reapply to the Department for readmission or to petition the Graduate School. Credit earned more than three years prior to the completion of the degree may not be counted toward meeting the degree requirements.

I. MASTER’S CANDIDACY

If a student has completed all of the required coursework for the degree and has registered for but failed to complete a thesis or directed research project, he or she must maintain candidacy status in all subsequent semesters until the degree is completed.

Registration in candidacy status is a means of maintaining continuous registration. This status must be maintained year-round (Fall, Spring, and Summer) until the degree is awarded. Students will be billed at the current rate per semester. Once a student registers for candidacy he or she may not thereafter register for additional courses. Exceptions may, in unusual circumstances, be granted by the Unit dean upon written request from the Department.

J. APPLICATION FOR DEGREES

Degrees are awarded in August, December, and May. Candidates who expect to receive degrees on a particular award date must fill out a degree application online. The degree application process is available through ULink (ulink.louisville.edu). Students must submit their completed application for degrees to the Graduate School on or before the dates specified in the University calendar (posted on the UofL website). For students seeking degrees in the spring semester, the deadline for degree applications is usually February 15.

K. EMAIL ACCOUNTS

All graduate students are assigned a University e-mail account. You are expected to check your account on a regular basis. You will receive announcements from various University, College, and Department offices, and instructors use Blackboard to communicate important information about classes. The Political Science Department maintains a graduate student e-mail distribution list to send announcements to you.

IV. OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION

A. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

The Department of Political Science has a limited number of graduate assistantships to offer exceptionally qualified full-time students. The availability of these funds varies from year to year. If available for a given year, the application deadline will be April 15, subject to change. Students awarded these positions are required to work 20 hours per week assisting faculty members with research, teaching, or administrative projects. Compensation normally includes a monthly stipend, health benefits, and the remission of in-state tuition. Graduate Assistants are discouraged from seeking employment outside the University while they are fulfilling their duties. Graduate Assistants are prohibited from accepting other employment within the University unless the Dean of the Graduate School gives permission to do so. Students seeking other forms of financial assistance should contact the University's financial aid office directly.

B. STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Graduate students have the opportunity and are encouraged to become involved in numerous student groups. These groups include the campus-wide Graduate Student Council (GSC), the Graduate Network in Arts and Sciences (GNAS), Pi Sigma Alpha (the Political Science honor society), College Democrats, and College Republicans.

The Department of Political Science must have a student representative on the GSC or the GNAS in order to give Political Science graduate students eligibility to apply for research or travel funds. These organizations maintain listservs that any graduate student may join.

C. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The M.A. degree is designed to meet the needs of students seeking careers in teaching, research, and public service and/or who anticipate continuing their studies on the doctoral level. To enhance the ability of students to meet their career goals, the curriculum strives to help students develop specific skills, including written and verbal communication skills, analytical skills, methodological skills, and statistical literacy. It is also strongly recommended that students interested in international studies enroll in foreign language courses to build their skills in this area. The American Political Science Association (APSA) has a wealth of resources for students available on its website.

The learning environment provided by the program furnishes students with additional avenues for professional development:

- Collaboration with faculty members on research that leads to co-authored publications
- Networking with department alumni at social events
- Participating in Model UN and Model EU competitions
- Presenting papers or posters at the annual conference of the Kentucky Political Science Association (KPSA) or at UofL graduate student conferences
- Presenting papers or posters at other political science conferences (e.g., APSA, SPSA, MPSA, ISA)
- Interning with the Kentucky General Assembly, the Louisville Metro government, political campaigns, or local non-profit organizations

Using the forms posted on the Departmental website, students may apply for grants to support their research or to finance participation at a scholarly conference.

D. GRADUATE STUDENT HONORS

Students demonstrating superior academic accomplishment during their graduate studies may be recommended by the Department of Political Science for a Graduate Dean's Citation. Typically, the Department recommends one or two students each year for the Citation. Nominees are reviewed by a committee in the Graduate School. Criteria for selection include an outstanding academic record and a significant record of accomplishment beyond the required coursework. Students may not nominate themselves.

E. PARENTAL/FAMILY LEAVE FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS

The Department supports students who need to take family, parental, or medical leave. Please see the Graduate School Policies for leave and petition for part-time enrollment status here, and contact the Graduate Advisor if you wish to take advantage of these options.

F. UNIVERSITY SEXUAL HARASSMENT POLICY

At University of Louisville, we take sexual misconduct, sexual assault, dating violence, stalking, and all forms of sex discrimination seriously and are very concerned if it happens to someone in our community. The Department is committed to providing a welcoming, supportive environment for all students.

Please note that faculty are considered mandatory reporters under Title IX and, under penalty of law, must inform the Title IX Coordinator of allegations of sexual misconduct or discrimination. There are campus resources in the Sexual Misconduct Resource guide (linked below) that can provide confidential support and discuss options with you or the alleged victim. https://louisville.edu/titleix/sexual_misconduct_resource_guide.pdf

- For complaints against students, contact the Dean of Students Office at 502-852-5787.
- For complaints against employees, contact Human Resources at 502-852-6688.
- For complaints against a University visitor, contact University Police at 502-852-6111.