

Report: Staff Senate Vice Chair
Tuesday, April 13, 2021

I do not have too much to report over the past month. Multiple ad hoc committee assignments have wrapped up recently, including the Provost's Advising Task Force and the senate's ad hoc committee on anti-racism efforts. Schedule conflicts have limited my participation in the Academic Scenario Planning Committee (a.k.a. Spring Forward), but I will be able to attend this Thursday's meeting (4/15). A report on the ULAA board is attached separately to the meeting agenda, and the board meets this Friday (4/16). Within the senate, I have continued to attend leadership meetings and executive committee meetings, as well as keeping up with PED, SME, SGC, and other matters as they arise.

It's not the fanciest report ever, but it's something on (digital) paper. If you have any questions or would like to discuss anything, please let me know. In the meantime, I hope you are enjoying the warmer weather as we drive toward closing out the year and (maybe) (possibly) (perhaps) (thinking about) (starting to) move out of pandemic-world.

Thanks,

Andrew B Grubb
